

Applications

Industrial Use

High Purity Mixed bed deionization cartridges are a great choice for low flow applications that require high purity water.

Laboratory Use

Matching the specific cartridge to your application is important. Deionization cartridges are most commonly used when Reverse Osmosis, (RO), alone can't be relied on to produce water of acceptable quality. Mixed bed deionization cartridges can be placed downstream of RO equipment, to, in many cases complete the purification process.